

Why vital water?

Our drinking water today is constantly being reused. It comes into contact with all sorts of substances, such as drug residues and pesticides. The radiation emitted by radio masts and power cables also has a negative effect on drinking water.

Mains water is artificially purified. All waste products are thereby removed from the water. However, this artificial purification leaves the molecular structure of the water unchanged. As a result, the vibration frequencies of waste products remain present in the mains water. If we vitalise this water, the molecular structure of the water is rearranged and all the encumbering information is removed: the water regains its vitality!

How does our vitaliser work?

In our vitaliser the water passes through a diabolo-shaped ceramic core. The water moves in a spiral (vortex motion), a movement which water makes in nature as well. An implosion occurs at the absolute centre of this vortex. This implosion rearranges the water's molecular structure. The water is now back in the form which nature intended and all the encumbering information has been removed. Vital water contains energy and life force again.

Benefits of vital water

Water is used throughout the home, for drinking, showers and cooking. But water is also essential on the farm, on the land and in the sheds, in the greenhouse, at school, in healthcare, in factories, in offices, in construction and in the catering industry. Vital water offers benefits in all these places!

Vital water ensures a better uptake of vitamins, minerals and other nutrients. It is also softer, denser and delicious to drink. Vital water has a cleansing working. Diseases and harmful bacteria can get virtually no hold on vital water, and there is little or no limescale deposited. Drinking vital water makes animals more energised and calmer. The root structure of plants grows and their fruits have more flavour. With vital water the use of artificial fertilisers, pesticides and drugs can be kept to a minimum.
